EASTER PARADE.

In your Easter bonnet,
With all the frills upon it,
You'll be the grandest lady
In the Easter Parade.
I'll be all in clover
And when they look you over
I'll be the proudest fellow
In the Easter Parade.
On the Avenue, Fifth Avenue,
The photographers will snap us
And you'll find that you're
In the rotogravure.
Oh, if I could write a sonnet
About your Easter Bonnet
And of the girl I'm taking
To the Easter Parade.

POOR LITTLE ANGELINE.

She was sweet sixteen, little Angeline,
Always dancing on the village green;
As the boys passed by you could hear them
cry,
Poor little Angeline.
Oh, her eyes were brown and her hair hung
down,
Laddered stockings and an old blue gown;
But she dreamed, we're told, of a lover bold,
Poor little Angeline.
Then one day her prince came riding,
And he stopped right by her side,
Very soon she heard him confiding,
"I want to make you my bride."
What a pretty scene on the village green,
When the prince was wed to Angeline;
Now as his princess she's a great success,
Poor little Angeline.

A BEAUTIFUL LADY IN BLUE.

A beautiful lady in blue,
We met just like two shadows do,
Not one word was said, she kissed me and fled
And our little romance was through.
A beautiful lady in blue,
She thought I was someone she knew,
Her lips so divine
Were not meant for mine,
The night seemed to laugh at us, too.
How did I know she was lovely?
There wasn't a moonbeam aglow,
How would I know there's a heaven
Unless my heart told me so.
A beautiful lady in blue,
And strange as it may sound to you,
A lifetime was spent in one little moment
With a beautiful lady in blue.

IT'S A SIN TO TELL A LIE.

Be sure it's true when you say
I love you,
It's a sin to tell a lie;
Millions of hearts have been broken
Just because those words were spoken.

I love you, yes I do, I love you,
If you break my heart I'll die.
So be sure it's true
When you say I love you—
It's a sin to tell a lie.

THE STONE OUTSIDE DAN MURPHY'S DOOR.

There's a sweet tender spot in our memory,
It's the place we were born and bred;
It's long years ago since we left it,
And return there we will if we're spared.
Our friends and companions of childhood
Would assemble each night at the store
From Dan Murphy's shop and often we sat
On the stone that stood outside his door.
Though deep in our hearts we will cherish,
Contented although we were poor;
And the songs that we sung in the days we were young,
On the stone outside Dan Murphy's door.

How sweet were the colleens' coy glances,
With their smiles and their flirtings galore;
Begorra, 'twas great around about eight,
Near the stone that stood outside his door.
There never has been such a gathering
As that night when young Rory O'Moore
Winked his eye at the girl of young Patrick
As he sat outside Dan Murphy's door.
If you're passing that way in your travels,
Just pause by old Dan Murphy's store:
You will find a large dent where young Rory's head went,
On the stone outside Dan Murphy's door.

TREASURE ISLAND.

I sailed away to Treasure Island,
And my heart stood still when I landed
On the silv'ry shore;
We met that day on Treasure Island,
And the smile you gave
Was the treasure I'd been craving for.
Then came those moments of bliss
In the shade of the sheltering palm;
I still remember your kiss
As you nestled within my arms.
I looked for gold on Treasure Island,
And I found that gold when
You gave your golden love to me.

LOVE'S OLD SWEET SONG.

Just a song at twilight,
When the lights are low,
And the flick'ring shadows
Softly come and go.
Though the heart be weary,
Sad the day and long,
Still to us at twilight
Comes love's old song,
Comes love's old sweet song.

AH! SWEET MYSTERY OF LIFE.

For 'tis love and love alone the world is seeking,
For 'tis love and love alone that can repay;
'Tis the answer, 'tis the end and all of living,
For it is love alone that rules for aye.

THE OLD RUSTIC BRIDGE.

I'm thinking to-night
Of the old rustic bridge
That bends o'er the murmuring stream;
'Twas there, Maggie dear,
With our hearts full of cheer,
We strayed 'neath the moon's gentle beam.

'Twas there I first met you,
The light of your eyes
Awoke in my heart a sweet thrill;
Tho' now far away
Still my thoughts fondly stray,
To the old rustic bridge by the mill.

Beneath it the stream gently rippled,
Around it the birds loved to trill;
Tho' now far away
Still my thoughts fondly stray
To the old rustic bridge by the mill.

- (19) SCHOOL SONG—"Remis Velisque" The School

Smith House boys, here's a song for you,
 Hunter and Hannell and Shortland too,
 Sing as our fathers sang it, loud and true,
 When they climbed up the hill in the morning.

CHORUS:

Yes, when we are gone, in the years far ahead,
 When the last game's played and the last lesson's said,
 The name of the school will awake from the dead
 The memories of many a morning.

Serving straight in a hard-fought match,
 Sprinting for the tape or a puzzling catch,
 The "blues," from the limit man to the scratch,
 Will still do their best, night and morning.

(CHORUS)

Remis Velisque's the motto for all,
 And our hearts yet again will still hear its call
 When the muscles are stiff that once toed the ball,
 Or climbed up the hill in the morning.
